Current Recommendations. At this review the highest risks (10+) remain:

Main Risks

- Council employee in road traffic incident,
- Council employee as pedestrian hit by road traffic,
- General Public accident on Council property,
- Loss of Paper or Computer records. Computer back up systems. Computer security discipline
- Defibrillator proves to be non-operational during an incident

In the light of some recent events. These risks appear to have become higher at present.

- Planning controversies. Councillors to be aware that planning applications and approaches may not always be what they appear to be. At all times Councillors should ensure impartiality, transparent actions, and if in doubt to declare their interests (if they have any) in any planning matter. If approached with an enquiry it is better to forward it to the entire Council
- Legal communications to HCPC. Ensure that you share these as appropriate. Do not respond to any until you have gained specialist advice, and if necessary Council approval.
- Risks connected with unintentional contracts or statements made that confuse authorised Council Statements with individual Councillor view or private views/opinions. Keep the two separate. Indicate in your communications which role you are acting in.
- Dangers due to forwarding long chain-emails. Try not to. Exercise care in language and release of information especially in emails as all information is effectively in the public domain. If nothing else then copyright laws can apply to other another party's text. GDPR regulations mean that you must only use personal details if they are directly relevant to a legitimate Council action. Follow the HCPC Data Protection Policy July 2018.
- Social Media
- Exposure to heat when working outdoors. Also when working near flooded roads or areas of ground.

Minor Risks

- Millennium Green Trust. Tree, Wall, or Pond hazards. Non-compliance with Charity Commissioner's regulations.

Risk Scoring Process: All hazards to be clearly identified and written down simply, and then assessed to give a 'notional risk rating'.

Each hazard is firstly scored for its potential severity, and then secondly is scored for the likelihood of it occurring. The two scores are multiplied together to give a risk score. This score has no special meaning except to highlight those risks that we are currently aware of and which to concentrate upon. This rating then determines priorities for actions or controls that are necessary to reduce the specific risk, and if necessary the overall risk rating for the Council. The Risk Management Options should be the most reasonable actions and need to be regularly reviewed.

All Councillors and Council Employees are to read the assessment, contribute to it or modify it if necessary, and agree to comply with control actions. Anyone acting outside the Code of Conduct or the agreed Risk Management actions does so at their own risk.

Finally of course the Risk you haven't thought of is likely to be the one that gets you! This table is only a guide not a foolproof assessment and doesn't replace common sense. However, accidents don't just happen – they are caused. There will be a link of causal elements leading to an incident. It is your responsibility as far as reasonable to break the causal links that lead to an incident.
